What the President Promised.

At a time like this it will not be amiss to introduce a comparison between what Andrew Johnson promised and what he has performed; or at least to show by his own words what he assured the country he would do, and let his actions attest what has, and what has not, been done. The following is a speech which was delivered by the President last April to a delegation from Illinois headed by Gov. Oglesby. We reproduce it in order that readers may make the contrast between his declared sentiments and foreshadowed policy, and the course which he has actually pursued. After making this comparison, the conclusion is irresistible that no man in our history has proven so faithless to pledges voluntarily, but solemnly given:

Gentlemen:—I have listened with profound emotion to the kind words you have addressed to me. The visit of this large delegation to speak to me, through you, sir, these words of encouragement, I had not anticipated. In the midst of the saddening circumstances which surround us, and the immense responsibility thrown upon me, an expression of the confidence of individuals, and still more of an influential body like that before me, representing a great commonwealth, cheers and strengthens my heavily burdened mind. I am at a loss for words to respond. In an hour like this, of deepest sorrow, were it possible to embody in words the feeling of my bosom, I could not command my lips to utter them. Perhaps the best reply I could make, and the one most readily appropriate to your kind assurances of confidence, would be to receive them in silence. (Sensation.) The throbbing of my heart since the sad catastrophe which has appalled us, cannot be reduced to words; and oppressed as I am with the new and great responsibility which has devolved upon me, and saddened with grief, I can with difficulty respond to you at all. But I cannot permit such expressions of the confidence reposed in me by the people to pass without acknowledgment. To an individual like myself, who has never claimed much, but who has, it is true, received from a generous people many marks of trust and honor for a long time, an occasion like this, and a manifestation of public feeling so well timed are peculiarly acceptable. Sprung from the people myself, every pulsation of the popular heart finds an immediate answer in my own. By many men in public life such occasions are often considered merely formal. To me they are real. Your words of countenance and encouragement sink deep in my heart, and were I even a coward I could not but gather from them strength to carry out my convictions of right. Thus feeling I shall enter upon the discharge of my great duty firmly, steadfastly—(Applause)—if not with the signal ability exhibited by my predecessor, which is still fresh in our sorrowing minds.

Here, gentlemen, you perhaps expect me to present some indication of my future policy. One thing I will say: every era teaches its lesson. The times we live in are not without instruction. The American people must be taught—if they do not already feel—that treason is a crime, and must be punished—(applause)—that the Government must not always bear with its enemies—that it is strong, not only to protect but to punish. (Applause.) When we turn to the criminal code and examine the catalogue of crimes, we there find arson laid down as a crime, with its appropriate penalty. We find there theft and robbery and murder given as crimes; and there, too, we find the last and highest of crimes treason. (Applause.) With other and inferior offences our people are familiar. But in our peaceful history treason has been almost unknown. The people must understand that it is the blackest of crimes, and will be surely punished. (Applause.) I make this allusion not to excite the already exasperated feelings of the public, but to point out the principles of public justice which should guide our action at this particular juncture, and which accord with sound public morals. Let it be engraven on every heart that treason is a crime, and traitors shall suffer the penalty. (Applause.) While we are appalled, overwhelmed, at the fall of one man in our midst by the hand of a traitor, shall we allow men—I care not by what weapons—to attempt the life of the State with impunity? While we strain our minds to comprehend the enormity of this assassination, shall we allow the nation to be assassinated? (Applause.) I speak in no spirit of unkindness. I leave the events of the future to be disposed of as they arise, regarding myself as the humble instrument of the American people. In this, as in all things, justice and judgment shall be determined by them. I do not harbor bitter or revengeful feelings towards any. In general terms, I would say that public morals and public opinion should be established upon the sure and inflexible principles of justice. (Applause.) When the question of exercising mercy comes before me it will be considered calmly, judiciously, remembering that I am the Executive of the nation. I know men love to have their names spoken of in connection with acts of mercy, and how easy it is to yield to this impulse. But, we must not forget that what may be mercy to the individual is cruelty to the State. (Applause.) In the exercise of mercy there should be no doubt but that this high prerogative is not used to relieve a few at the expense of the many.

Be assured that I shall never forget that I am not to consult my own feelings alone, but to give an account to the whole people. (Applause.) In regard to my future course I will now make no professions, no pledges. I have been connected somewhat actively with public affairs, and to the history of my past public acts, which is familiar to you, I refer for those principles which have governed me heretofore and will guide me hereafter. In general I will say I have long labored for the amelioration and elevation of the great mass of mankind. My opinions as to the nature of popular government have long been cherished, and, constituted as I am, it is now too late in life for me to change them. I believe that government was made for man, and not man for government. (Applause.) The struggle of the people against the most gigantic rebellion the world ever saw has demonstrated that the attachment of the people to their government is the strongest national defense human wisdom can devise. (Applause.) So long as each man feels that the interests of the government are his interests, so long as the public heart turns in the right direction, and the people understand and appreciate the theory of our government and love liberty, our Constitution will be transmitted unimpaired. If the time ever comes when the people shall fail, the government will fail, and we shall cease to be one of the nations of the earth. After having preserved our form of free government, and shown its power to maintain its existence through the vicissitudes of nearly a century, it may be that it was necessary for us to pass through this last ordeal of intestine strife to prove that this government will not perish from internal weakness, but will stand to defend itself against all foes and punish treason. (Applause.) In the dealings of an inscrutable Providence, and by the operation of the Constitution, I have been thrown unexpectedly into this position. My past life—especially my course during the present unholy rebellion—is before you. I have no principles to retract. I defy any one to point to any of my public acts at variance with the fixed principles which have guided me through life. I have no professions to offer. Professions and promises would be worth nothing at this time. No one can see the circumstances that will hereafter arise. Had any man gifted with prescience, four years ago, uttered and written down in advance the events of this period, the story would have seemed more marvelous than anything in the "Arabian Nights." I shall not attempt to anticipate the future. As events occur, and it becomes necessary for me to act, I shall dispose of each as it arises, deferring any declaration or message until it can be written paragraph by paragraph in the light of events as they transpire.

CALIFORNIA OIL.—The Commercial Gazette, of San Francisco, says the receipts of earth oil from the interior are beginning to be of considerable moment. About 16,000 gallons arrived at San Francisco, last week, from the vicinity of San Buenaventura, gathered at the Stanford Oil Works, and is now in process of refining, by Stanford & Brothers. The same house are also in receipt of a further invoice of 1,000 gallons, from the Union Mattole Company, Humboldt, which was purchased by them, to arrive, at fifty cents per gallon in its crude state.

It is rumored in Norfolk that the work at the Navy Yard will be suspended. A discharge of hands took place on January 30th.

Secretary Seward.

Nearly all our greatest men have, at some time in their career swerved from the general line of conduct which has guided their lives. Were it not that history furnishes us examples innumerable of men of the highest talents who have deviated at certain times from the course they had mainly pursued, we might be profoundly astonished to observe the present conduct of Secretary Seward. This great statesman has a name which in itself will carry as much—perhaps more influence, than any other in the United States. For years he has had as large a hold on the minds of the people as it was possible for any one in the position he has filled, to obtain. He has been trusted as implicitly as any statesman could be trusted by an intelligent and self-reliant people. Were it not for the knowledge which our countrymen have acquired both from observation and history, that the greatest men have often made mistakes, some through a willful purpose and others through honest motives, we might all be at an utter loss to account for the action of our great statesman in taking the position he has recently [illegible]. The people know that those whom they [illegible] are liable to be misled by personal ambition, and [illegible] possibly by more unworthy motives; and with the experience of the past before [illegible] they will not be induced to place perfect reliance on men whom they believe to have swerved from the true course of duty. No matter how highly the American people appreciate the services of their country's eminent men; no matter how profound their respect and love for those whom they have been accustomed to trust, they will not blindly follow their lead when they believe them to be wrong. The people could not be true to themselves were they to forget their own responsibility, to cease to be guided by their own convictions, or to follow with unquestioning trust wherever the person on whom they had placed their [illegible] might choose to lead.

Though we certainly should never have expected to see Secretary Seward take the course he is now pursuing, there is nothing very surprising in his doing so. Greater men than Mr. Seward have been led astray. Our own Webster, beguiled by his ambition, forsook his integrity, renounced the leading principles of his life and lost the respect and confidence of his countrymen. The Presidency is a very high [illegible], and the desire to reach it has proved fatal to the integrity of many of our great men. Seward was set aside in 1860 to make room for Lincoln, and from the Secretary's late [illegible] the inference is ready that he has not forgotten this neglect of his claims. Therefore he has a double purpose in view at the present time. The first is to consolidate a party out of various mongrel elements, which will give him the nomination in 1868; the second is to gain a triumph over those who preferred [illegible] to him on a former occasion. We believe that he has set the Presidency in his eye, and that this will [illegible] account for his doing that which, in the judgment of his countrymen, is at war with the principles which through all his past life he has ably expounded and strongly defended.

The people are sensible that Secretary Seward has made many mistakes; and what statesman has not? His declaration at the commencement of the rebellion that the war would not last longer than sixty days, have been looked on as an instance that he did not at all appreciate the magnitude of the conflict in which the country was engaged. Our foreign policy he is said to have skillfully managed; but the fact is very clear that foreign intervention was averted more by the [illegible] of Russia and our victories, than by the art of the diplomat. To-day our foreign relations are in a very unsatisfactory condition, and an appeal to the sword in behalf of Mexico will one day be inevitable. The last Congress did not think that the Secretary's management of our foreign policy was faultless, and the people generally were of the same opinion. We mention these things not to try to detract in the smallest degree from his fame, for that is assured; but to show that wise and great as he is, the people have not always perfectly approved his acts, and that as they have before questioned the soundness of his opinions, they should not now think it their imperative duty to acquiesce in whatever he may do, and to withhold their expressions of disapprobation when they believe him to be wrong.

Mr. Seward has lately boasted that "the position taken by the President was assumed through his influence," or in other words, that Andrew Johnson is President of the United States in name only. The Secretary, then, having unlimited influence over the mind of the President, is following out a line of policy which not only gratifies present ambition, but which is intended to prepare the way for acquiring Presidential honors of his own. His emphatic endorsement of everything the President said in his late speech is one of the most remarkable and unaccountable of the strange thing he has recently done. That a man so dignified and courteous as Seward should commend any one for so coarse and incoherent a harangue as that delivered by the President, almost surpasses belief. It looks as if Mr. Seward, in order to be master, was willing to serve the President in any way circumstances might require.

Another strange remark from the Secretary is his statement that he "does not believe there is a single traitor in the South." We have no means of knowing what sort of men Mr. Seward would consider traitors; but the opinion is general through the country that the men who waged unrelenting war on the Government for four years, who massacred unoffending citizens and who starved sixty thousand Union soldiers, are something besides patriots. This remark of Mr. Seward shows why he and the President could so readily consent to the admission of the Southern members into Congress. If they are not traitors, and the Secretary says they are not, they should be admitted at once. But as many of them are traitors of the blackest description, the country will for ever remain inexorable to their petition for seats in Congress.

We shall always honor Seward for the services he performed in the cause of liberty in the days when it was a trial of manhood to stand up for the right. We reverence him for the moral grandeur he exhibited years ago in resisting the encroachments of that pernicious institution which was the blight of republican government. Whatever he may be hereafter, we cannot forget what he has been. Remembering the example of others of our statesmen, the people, though regretting to see him taking his present course, and though forced to disagree with him in his policy, will nevertheless, if possible, forgive the sin of his ambition.

COPPERHEAD CONCILIATION.—The Confederate Democrats, after being thoroughly whipped, over the shoulders of the rebellion, are now very anxious to "let the dead past bury the dead," and to shake hands over the graves of common brothers and countrymen." They want the asperities of the late war to be softened and wiped out. They, of course, don't ask for all the offices of honor, profit and trust, solely on account of the honor, profit or trust, but for the good of the country; in order that the Constitution may not be utterly destroyed; and that the lately contending and still jealous sections may be thoroughly cemented in the bonds of friendship. That these things may be accomplished, they simply and very modestly demand that whenever a Southern traitor indicates his repentance by appearing at the door of Congress with a certificate of election, though his hands may be recking with the blood of Union soldiers, he shall be admitted without hesitation; that the State and federal offices in the South be restored to their rightful owners, the chivalric gentlemen who have lately shown the unexampled patriotism of a five years' effort to preserve the Union by establishing an independent Southern Confederacy; and that human liberty be perpetuated by a re-enslavement of the four millions of emancipated negroes. These things done, Jeff. Davis released and restored to the U. S. Senate or elevated to the Presidential chair; the heroism of Lee, Mosby, and other guerrilla chiefs, properly acknowledged and rewarded; such "Northern traitors" as Stevens, Sumner, Wade, &c., hung by the neck till they are dead; and a general arrangement made for the comfort of the rebel aristocracy, the restoration of the Union will be considered complete, upon the Copperhead theory. Everybody will be conciliated, the jar of warring factions will be heard in the land no more, and the United States will again enter upon a career of glory, honor and prosperity. Verily, the conciliation offered by the Confederate Democracy is savory to Union nostrils, fair for Union eyes to look upon, and sweet to the taste—especially of those "hirelings" who wear the scars and scarcely healed wounds of conciliatory bullets hurled by muskets in those same hands, now extended for a conciliatory shake.

SENATOR STEWART'S SOMERSAULT.—In looking over the Congressional Globe, says a California journal, we find that on the 18th of January when the Freedmen's Bureau Bill was up for consideration in the Senate, Stewart, of Nevada, delivered a speech beginning as follows:

"Mr. President, I desire to make a few remarks in reply to the Senator from Ohio; and this bill being before the Senate calls up the precise question upon which I desire to occupy the attention of the Senate for a moment upon the subject discussed by the Senator from Ohio. Without attempting to make a speech, I wish to remark that there is a practical measure before the Senate for the benefit of the freedmen, carrying out the Constitutional provision to protect him in his civil rights. I am in favor of this bill. It goes to the utmost extent that I think we are entitled to go under the Constitutional Amendment. There is another bill introduced by the Senator from Illinois which must go along with it, which provides civil jurisdiction for the protection of the freedman. Under this Constitutional Amendment we can grant the freedman, and we shall do something for his real benefit."

Yet a little while after, the Senator who spoke these words made the [illegible] discovery that the Freedmen's Bureau Bill was unconstitutional, and that no power inhered in Congress to legislate for the insurgent States until the Representatives and Senators they had sent to Washington should be first admitted. Why this change of views? The action of Senator Stewart and others was inspired by Presidential dictation, and grew out of a pre-arranged plan on the part of the Executive and "conservative" and Copperhead politicians to form a middle party which should sustain Johnson in his obstinate opposition to the masses of the Union party.

THE OLDEST AND LARGEST

LIFE INSURANCE CO.

In the United States!

EVERY DESCRIPTION OF POLICY ISSUED.

ALL POLICIES ARE NON-FORFEITABLE.

Dividends are declared Annually—which can be applied as Cash in reducing the yearly premium commencing on the second year, or towards buying more Insurance.

The last Dividend (Feb. 1st, 1866) was nearly double in amount and in proportion to premiums paid than was ever declared in the same space of time by any other Company in the world.

EXAMPLES

OF DIVIDENDS ON POLICIES ISSUED IN 1864.

Am't Policy.	Am't Dividends.	Am't Premiums Paid.
$10,000 00	$370 60	$353 00
10,000 00	530 72	304 40
5,000 00	197 20	111 40
3,000 00	118 43	66 84
1,000 00	52 64	25 82

EXAMPLES

OF POLICIES PAID BY THE COMPANY.

Original Am't Policy.	Dividend Additions.	Total Am't Pd.
$10,000 00	$6,026 09	$16,026 09
5,000 00	3,278 43	8,278 43
4,000 00	2,359 53	6,359 53
1,000 00	1,508 39	2,508 39

N. B.—Particular attention is requested to the advantages afforded by the payment of the premiums, on both Life and Endowment assurance policies, in TEN ANNUAL INSTALLMENTS. The rates of such premiums charged by this Company are lower, while the dividends are greater, than in any other life company in the United States. As an additional inducement, the Company will, on surrender of such policy, issue a paid-up policy for an equitable sum, which they will guarantee SHALL exceed the proportionate amount.

For instance, on surrender of a policy for $10,000 (other amounts in the same proportion,) on which the premiums are payable in ten annual installments, the Company will issue a PAID-UP POLICY which they will guarantee

After the payment of 2 premiums SHALL EXCEED $2000
" " " " $000

And so on. On the Five Year Life Plan the pro rata is double.

ENDOWMENT POLICIES are issued payable to the assured at death or any age between 40 and 85, with full participation in the surplus of the Company, thus combining Life Insurance with a safe and profitable investment.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION is called to the Table of Rates by Ten Annual Installments for "Endowments," issued by this Company, which present UNEQUALED ATTRACTIONS, EITHER AS AN INVESTMENT OR PROVISION IN CASE OF PREMATURE DEATH, for it is now universally conceded that aside from the Life Insurance which is provided with the Policy, that there is no way of investing small installments to so safe and highly advantageous a manner, as it gives the assured the entire benefits of an [illegible] capital and well regulated Financial Institution. To parties in health 'tis invaluable, and by many is considered an actual necessity for present [illegible] ALONE, for aside from the many other advantages it constitutes the VERY FINEST FORM OF COLLATERAL upon which to borrow or convert into cash in case of [illegible] policy, which can be readily accomplished, and for a far greater sum than has been expended on the Policy—[illegible] as from the first it shares in the immense dividends of the Company—and is non-forfeitable for a full proportionate amount of the entire policy for each and every year's premium paid thereon.

The above class of Policy is attracting much attention throughout the United States. THOUSANDS who have heretofore declined insuring are now rapidly availing themselves of its benefits, as the marvelous rate of increase in the works of this Company will attest. The cash assets of this Company alone, exceed in amount the total cash assets of the other sixteen companies combined, incorporated in the State of New York, while the CASH dividends for the last two years were nearly double that ever declared by any other Company.

Parties desirous to insure should start in at once to SECURE A FULL YEAR'S DIVIDEND to be declared FEBRUARY 1st, 1867. Apply to

THE FIRST FLY OF SPRING.—Clouds and vapors fly before the wind. Winter flies before spring. As fly the [illegible] of wings, soft, beautiful days now fly before the [illegible] family in our midst and the insect in [illegible] known as the house fly appears in our [illegible]. Yesterday the first fly of the season paid our [illegible]. The bright transparent wings did not [illegible] that it had fared hard since last it [illegible] and we felt that to be a fly and make such a [illegible] a long tedious spell of cold weather, must be [illegible] indeed. Since the sun last entered capricorn [illegible] has been almost as much a stranger in our region [illegible] we were situated further in the northern latitude. But as spring is upon us—the sun appears to [illegible] the desolate ground and cause the tender herb to [illegible], and the fly with an instinct taught by nature [illegible] sight and notice. With as spring is a source [illegible] our supplies are drawn—let it not be [illegible] a limit to the enjoyment of this fly or [illegible] of man whose constant companion it is [illegible] the commonly despised creature [illegible] of those feats which only such insects have [illegible] to accomplish—and crept up the smooth [illegible] of the wall, next walked on the ceiling [illegible], and at last gave us an opportunity to [illegible] creative design, standing quietly on the [illegible] paper before us. But not having a micro[illegible] to witness the matters so interesting [illegible] were not sufficiently provided for. And [illegible] with Derham, Blackwall, and others [illegible] are yet extant. Though bred in [illegible] delights in cleanliness, and may be seen in [illegible] day, brushing off the dust by [illegible] together the process resembling that [illegible] for a similar purpose. The fly which [illegible] this item was allowed to pass unharmed, but [illegible] very generally troublesome to house[illegible] in this connection we will add that a dish of [illegible] well sweetened will be eagerly tasted [illegible] proven certain poison. If they become too [illegible].

[illegible].—The Yreka Journal of the 2d [illegible] Saturday, the 17th of February, at a point [illegible] miles above the Jacksonville road, one of [illegible] of nature occurred on the Klamath [illegible] party had tied their canoes at the bank of the [illegible] soon after were much astonished and [illegible] the bed of the river rise up, and [illegible] distance back of the bank sink down so [illegible] without disturbing the large [illegible]. The ground presented a gradual [illegible] that was thirty feet high when it sank, [illegible] an abrupt bluff some fifty feet back. The bed of the river rising on the river [illegible] a large bar, and turned the water [illegible] about fifty feet on one side of the [illegible]. The earth raised up in the [illegible] of shale formation with large [illegible] an immense bar above the level [illegible] who witnessed the upheaval [illegible] large quantity of fish suddenly [illegible] by the occurrence, and the [illegible] supplied with means of fine [illegible]. No [illegible]. It [illegible] to do with the late earthquake at [illegible] the eruption of Mount Hood, and the [illegible] be the eruption of Mount Shasta.

[illegible].—There is nothing that gives a [illegible] contentment, and a home like appearance [illegible] than the presence of shade trees along the [illegible] in Portland, property holders have [illegible] planting trees, not knowing just where [illegible] they might become permanent. This [illegible], we observe some few on Washington [illegible] that there will be no more changes of [illegible] and trees are being set out. The city [illegible], we trust, of changes calculated to [illegible] and in future [illegible] and stations will lead to accuracy [illegible]. Our citizens have felt timid [illegible] and placing shade trees [illegible] but now that we can look upon [illegible] made, may we not [illegible] done in the matter of [illegible].

[illegible].—One of the Bloody 14th stepped [illegible] Oriente last evening at Vancouver, [illegible] to Portland. He was in a state of beastly [illegible] the time, and on the trip became very [illegible] in the cabin, [illegible] to a [illegible], and Capt. Wolfe invited him to [illegible]. He mostly refused, and when it became [illegible] put him out by force he insisted, and made [illegible] the Captain. This was too much for the [illegible] of the popular [illegible] of the [illegible] was [illegible] roughly handled [illegible] representative of the Bloody [illegible] quarters on the sidewalk, and [illegible] taken to jail by one of the Police [illegible] in our next, as the bold [illegible] His Honor Justice Wolfrom, to-day.

[illegible].—[illegible] Bill is a very suc[illegible] wild Cayuse Bill. Whether he likes [illegible] or not we are not prepared to say—but there [illegible] on the street that he recently dropped [illegible], and started to go to [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] a stock of [illegible] thing is quite sure, he often takes up [illegible] than the laws allow [illegible] his wild animals, and [illegible] to pass around him that he [illegible] they would not probably do, were it [illegible] and to guard the [illegible] of the walks, and last evening Bill was arrested by an officer in the act. He resisted the [illegible] created no little [illegible]. An examination will take place to-day.

[illegible].—Mrs. Mayfield, having [illegible] a fine [illegible] street, near the [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible]. As a cloak and [illegible] maker [illegible] has no superior in the city, and in [illegible] she has for giving entire satisfaction [illegible] she keeps constantly on hand a fine [illegible] fancy goods. The latest London [illegible] York styles are received by her, and she [illegible] to execute work in accordance [illegible] approved patterns. In looking over her [illegible] we find a variety which will [illegible] to satisfy the most ardent [illegible] advertisement, and give the lady a call.

[illegible].—In addition to the [illegible] a trip to Vancouver this evening, the [illegible], Capt. Turnbull, will make an [illegible]. The Fourteenth Infantry Band [illegible] by the [illegible] and boat this morning, [illegible] over this afternoon. Fare by [illegible] cents for the round trip. The [illegible] of the Good [illegible] must be [illegible].

[illegible].—[illegible] J., March 13th, [illegible] John [illegible] of throwing missiles from the roof of [illegible] lane. Fined $4 [illegible] and disorderly [illegible] Doe, a servant girl, [illegible] at the house [illegible] $10 and costs. George [illegible] and disorderly. Sent [illegible] days work.

[illegible] J., March 13th, 1866.—[illegible] (Capt. John) larceny of a pair [illegible]. Verdict of guilty. Sentenced [illegible] in the county jail. The house has not only paid well [illegible], but has lately been materially enlarged [illegible] at this time at least one-half more of each class [illegible] in the city in the line of hotels than [illegible] in 1864, and yet the [illegible] is for more [illegible].

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MARCH 11.

Texas Constitutional Convention

GALVESTON, TEXAS, March 8.—The convention laid on the table a motion to make white inhabitants the basis of representation. A motion to strike out the word "white" was lost—31 against 44. A motion to leave it [illegible] with the legislature to fix the basis of representation was lost—20 to [illegible]. An ordinance establishing quarantine of 20 days for all Texas ports was passed [illegible] agricultural [illegible].

Overland Telegraph Lines

CHICAGO, March 10.—The Secretary of War transmitted to the Senate on Wednesday, 7th inst., information relative to the construction of a telegraph from New Orleans to San Francisco and from St. Paul to Portland, Oregon. The applicants ask that protection with subsistence and transportation as far as possible be supplied by military commanders at posts on the route, in consideration for which, they propose to transmit Government messages free. The Secretary says the applications were referred to General Grant, who recommends protection but not subsistence or transportation. The Secretary further says the war department does not assume authority to grant the right or title to construct lines and contemplates nothing more than to furnish such protection as may be without prejudice to the service, leaving parties to obtain charters from competent authority.

Pacific Railroad Matters

The Union Pacific Railroad will be opened to Fort Riley, 134 miles, on the fourth of July with a special celebration of the event. The Leavenworth branch, joining the main line at Lawrence, will be completed during May. It was expected they will soon commence the branch from Fort Riley down the Neosho valley.

Revenue Seizures—More About the Fenian Excitement.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Twenty distilleries in this city have been seized for defrauding the revenue.

The Fenian excitement runs high. Fabulous sums of money are pouring in from sales of bonds of the Irish Republic. The Canadian Government has instituted strict surveillance of passengers' baggage and freight coming into the provinces. Bishop Lynch, Catholic, has denounced the Fenians. It is expected the Government will stop the public celebration of St. Patrick's day, for fear of an outbreak.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The House to-day went into committee of the whole for general debate.

Another instance of the testimony taken before the reconstruction committee will be reported to Congress next week, including the testimony of General Lee, who says he never took an oath to support the Confederacy, having always [illegible] avoided it.

Further consideration of the bankrupt bill will be resumed in the House on Wednesday or Thursday. The friends of the measure are confident.

The Arlington estate has been ordered to be divided into lots for lease to freedmen and under [illegible] title of the United States, which has purchased the same for taxes.

The Attorney General, who is making a list of pardons, in answer to an inquiry of the House, will show about 15,000 pardons, mostly under the $20,000 clause.

Proposed Changes in Revenue Law

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Mr. Garfield has been instructed by the Ways and Means Committee to report in part the changes in revenue law already agreed on. The tax on incomes has been fixed at 5 per cent on all over $1,000. The tax on schedule has been thrown off, except on billiard tables and carriages worth over $300. Cotton is taxed 5 cents per pound, payable not by the planter, but monthly by the manufacturer or exporter. The tax of $1 per barrel on crude petroleum is removed, as is also that on transportation. The tax on whisky has not been [illegible].

The House Judiciary Committee will be ready Tuesday to again [illegible] the civil rights' bill. A proviso will be added to it [illegible] will make the bill explicit on the subject of suffrage.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—In the Senate, Mr. Grimes presented the [illegible] of the Iowa Legislature, asking for the speedy trial of Jeff. Davis, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

In the House, Mr. Ashley, of Ohio, offered a resolution that the Library Committee inquire into the expediency of purchasing the portrait of Joshua R. Giddings, now on exhibition in the Capitol. Mr. Eldridge, of Wisconsin, demanded the ayes and noes, with the following result—Ayes, 78; noes, 53.

Mr. Julian introduced a bill fixing eight hours as a day's work for all Government employees, which was read twice and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Spaulding, of Ohio, introduced a joint resolution, declaring that the Act of June 30th, 1864, shall not be so construed as to exempt United States notes and certificates of indebtedness not bearing interest, from local taxation, and moved their reference to the Committee on Ways and Means, with leave to report at any time, and demanded the previous question. He was opposed by Mr. Stevens, who hoped the gentleman would make the reference. Mr. Wentworth said he would scarcely object to a reference of anything now, since the guarantee of the [illegible] bonds was [illegible]. Mr. Spaulding wants to tax greenbacks like [illegible]. It is as much as I can do to carry interest-bearing bonds without taxation. Mr. Stevens said, "I move to lay the motion on the table. It is rank repudiation and [illegible]." The previous question was reconsidered, and the motion to lay it on the table was tabled, ayes 42; noes, 90. The resolution was then [illegible].

[illegible] Violation of Neutrality to be Punished.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Joint Committee for the adjustment of cases between the United States and New Granada will resume their labors to-day, when they will consider the important interest of [illegible] with the Panama Railroad.

Secretary Seward [illegible] the British Minister that any attempt by Fenians to invade Canada or violate neutrality law will be promptly punished. Sir Frederick Bruce replied that he has no apprehension of any trouble, believing the movement [illegible] to enrich certain [illegible] at the expense of a few dupes, who may get them [illegible] into difficulty by too much faith in the bond [illegible].

[illegible] Removal of Colored Troops from Georgia.

GEORGIA, March 12.—The Columbus, Georgia, Enquirer, publishes the following dispatch from ex-Governor Johnson, dated Washington, March 10:

"Dear Sir—I have had a short interview with the [illegible], Secretary of War and General Grant, relative to the removal of colored troops. I was [illegible] by Gen. Grant that as soon as he could substitute other troops they should be [illegible], and that in fact such order had already been [illegible]. Yours truly, J. J. JOHNSON.

The New York Legislature Sustain Cong.

[illegible], March 12th.—The New York Legislature voted down the [illegible] favoring the eight hour movement. The same body [illegible] by a strict party vote that Congress has full power to determine the mode of re-admission of [illegible] States and to fix the qualifications of [illegible], and that, whatever differences may exist between Executive and Legislative power in measures necessary to attain the great ends, which peace should yield, we are of opinion that there should not be such a diversity either on general results or method of attaining the same, as should produce hostility or sever political relations. The New York Herald says these resolutions are not to be attributed to either the Weed or Greeley faction, but an independent movement.

The Press on the Pennsylvania Platform.

The platform of the Pennsylvania Republican Convention excites much [illegible] and is generally approved by the party press of that State and New York. The Herald is bold and startling; placing the party in direct antagonism with the administration. The New York Tribune says it will be Gettysburg over again, and applauds the Convention for its [illegible], but has fears for the result. The World says the Convention was careful to [illegible] the President only for what he did previous to the beginning of the great work of reconstruction, on which his fame will rest if successful, and by which he will be wrecked if the facts which the resolutions convey by implication, be correct, that consistency with his past record requires Johnson to renounce his present policy. This resolution puts its left arm around President Johnson's neck and calls him brother, while with its right it thrusts a dagger under the fifth rib.

Foreign News.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Steamship City of Boston, from Liverpool the 28th of February and Queenstown March 1st, has arrived. The London Times, speaking of the want of unanimity in Earl Russell's Cabinet, is not surprised at a rumor that Earl Russell asks the Queen to relieve him of his duties. The Times admits that the rumor wants authenticity, but discusses it as a fact. It supposes a new cabinet will be formed and suggests Duke of [illegible] as its possible head. No other journal says anything on the subject.

The English Government has seized two vessels at London which were fitting out for the Chilean Government.

The condition of Fenian affairs remains unchanged. Arrests continue plentiful in all directions and arms and ammunition are frequently [illegible]. The military force in Ireland is to be further augmented. The Irish question has been discussed in the House of Lords, where Earl Gray gave notice he would name an early day for full consultation on the subject. The Times bitterly denounces the bad taste of Mr. Bancroft's oration. The Government received a telegram, twenty-one hours from India, announcing the settlement of the Bhootan affair. The memorial Diplomatique says the mission of Baron Saillard to Mexico is a mere starting point in the negotiations for withdrawal of French troops. The report that 5,000 will return in May is at least premature. The French expedition which was to end in 1865 has cost £27,000,000 sterling and 11,000 men killed and disabled.

Latest advices from Liverpool say that the rumored resignation of Earl Russell is denied.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Senate committee on the Pacific Railroad have reported a bill granting lands to the Leavenworth, Lawrence, Fort Gibson and Galveston Railroad and Telegraph Company for two hundred feet on each side of the road, and twenty alternate sections per mile, the mineral lands being reserved. The road must be commenced in two years.

The Senate committee on claims have reported in favor of making good the loss of San Francisco banking firms by the lapse of new bonds in place of those lost on the steamer to Portland last July.

Napoleon's Agent in Mexico.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The Herald's City of Mexico correspondent notices the arrival from Europe of the Arch Duke, the brother of Maximilian, and Napoleon's agent the Baron Saillard, and states that the latter's mission is very different from that heretofore announced.

California News.

Henry & Telford, painters, occupying the upper portion of the building suffer to the extent of some $1,500.

Sixty horses belonging to citizens of the valley were recovered. The troops engaged were detachments from companies B and F from Smoke Creek and Forts Crook and Bidwell, under Majors Smith and McDermott, Capt. Starr, all of the 2d Cavalry Volunteers. A Confederate Rally at McMinnville

McMINNVILLE, March 10, 1866.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Our country village has been laboring under a great excitement nearly all day, in consequence of a Democratic rally called for the purpose of indorsing the President in his late veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill. The streets were literally filled with excited Democrats, most of whom had come from Lafayette, North Yamhill and the surrounding country for the purposing of saving Democracy. There being no building in the village suitable for the occasion, the people loitered about the streets not knowing what was to come next, until nearly 3 o'clock, when the joyful news came that Mrs. Bob Kenny had said her house was always open for everybody and everything in favor of Democracy. The news ran like wild fire from ear to ear, and down they rushed to Uncle Bob's. He met them at the door in his usual good natured manner and said: "come in boys as many of you as can get in. Hurrah for Democracy!" All things being arranged, the meeting called to order, Mr. Barker was elected chairman and Mr. Thompson secretary. Mr. Bradshaw, Mr. Newby and Mr. Degarnette were appointed speakers. Mr. Newby proposed that the following resolutions be adopted before speaking. Agreed to.

Resolved, That we are and ever have been in favor of the principles of Democracy as advocated by Jefferson and Jackson, and that we indorse the sentiments of Stephen A. Douglas, that this Government is made on a white basis for the benefit of the white man.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the Constitution of the United States, and of the State of Oregon, and all the laws pursuant therewith.

Resolved, We believe the Democracy to be a fixed principle, and do indorse President Johnson in his veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill, believing it to be an act of local outside merit and reason, on which the salvation of our country depends.

Resolved, That we tender to Senator Nesmith, who stood by the President, our heartfelt gratitude, hoping that he may ever sustain him in restoring the Union, by putting down Radical fanaticism.

Resolved, That to the time-honored Democratic Senate great praise is due for their unwavering courage in trying hours, while in a helpless minority to them we say, stand firm and save the Government.

Whereas, There is a majority of the members of Congress who are in favor of practicing the equalization of the races, and placing them upon a social and political equality with the white man, and according to the acknowledged leaders, make them a political tool for the continuance of the Radicals in power. Therefore,

Resolved, That believing as we do that these Congressmen are trying to subject the fundamental principles of the Federal Government, and establish on the ruins thereof a tyrannical form of government which we most bitterly denounce.

(Voices—"Newby," "Degarnett.") Mr. Newby, a leading member of the party, made a very lengthy and flowery speech in favor of the Democratic party, in which he denounced the members of Congress and the United States Senate, and said that it was foolishness for the radicals in power to even talk about the impeachment of the President; that he was vindicating the laws of the country on true Democratic principles; and that the people would not submit to any such thing. After ridiculing his opponents, he retired with applause.

Mr. Bradshaw made a few remarks, indorsing the President in his veto, said that it was done on Democratic principles; that the Government had been conducted the past five years with laws above the Constitution. They were not good enough. And now they talk about impeaching the President because he says that this is a Government for the white man. [Applause.] He had lived a good many years and had never voted any ticket but the Democratic, and never would. He retired amidst applause.

(Voices "Degarnett.") Mr. Degarnett arose with the dignity of a warrior, and said: "Gentlemen, I did not come here with the intention of making a speech; but when I think of my once happy home, and my property, it makes my blood boil. Applause.) I have lived in the South and I know all about it, and when they undertake to place me and my family on an equality with a nigger, I am roused up to a sense of my duty. I am six feet two inches in my stockings, and they'll never choke it down me. (Applause.) Gentlemen, I would like to say a great deal upon this subject, but time is getting short. (Voices,) 'Go on, give it to 'um.' They talk about a white man's rights. I am a white man and when I was there I had no rights except the right to git up and git! (Applause and repeated applause.) I did leave and as I was about to do so, I could have had the office of Deputy Marshal. One of my old neighbors said, 'don't leave; we want just such Union men as you to save our country.' I told him that if I accepted the office I would go forth with the Constitution of the United States in one hand, and the American Flag in the other, determined to fight my way through, that the laws of the Nation might be vindicated and our country saved. What was the next thing I heard? I will tell you. One of my neighbors received a letter stating that if Degarnett accepts that office, he will be assassinated in less than three days. I declined to accept, and it now makes my blood boil when I see the Nigger equalization party holding out the olive branch, as it were, (meaning emancipation proclamation) to the people of my country, and crying to the top of their voices, 'come! come! well done thou good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the Kingdom prepared for you by Abraham Lincoln—that lovely railsplitter of Illinois, who has gone down (applause repeated applause.) The same party says he has gone up. I doubt it strongly. (Laughter.) Nearly every thing that we buy is stamped with his detestable profile. They would stamp the water if they could do it. (Laughter and applause.) I don't mean Abraham of old; I mean Abraham with the Niggers in his arms." (Laughter.)

After going on in the above manner for some half an hour, Mr. D. retired amidst the most enthusiastic applause.

IT WON'T CURE CONSUMPTION.—Hall's Pulmonary Balsam is not recommended to cure Consumption, but it will give more relief than any other remedy offered to the public, and for all other Pulmonary and Bronchial affections there is nothing equal to it.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

The Love of Dante

The following reference to the only love of Dante, the author of the Divina Comedia, will be read with tender interest by all who reverence the memory of departed genius. It is from the life of the great Tuscan poet, recently published by Professor Batta:

"It was in the ninth year of his age, that Dante first met Beatrice who according to the popular idea, inspired him with that transcendent love, the story of which he himself relates in the Vita Nuova, and which he has immortalized in the Divina Comedia. Concerning the nature of this love, there have been various opinions among circumstances. While some have regarded it as the romantic devotion of an impassioned lover to an actual woman, by others Beatrice is considered as a purely symbolic character.

The Vita Nuova, composed from 1293 to 1300, contains thirty-one poems of different dates, accompanied by prose notes and interpretations, which connect them together and explain their occasions and apparent meaning. It is essentially mystic in its character, and leaves the reader in doubt as to the nature of the love, whether real or symbolical, which it portrays. Dante here describes his first meeting with Beatrice, when love became the master of his soul; the devotion with which he followed her while a boy, and how, after nine years, this most gentle lady again appeared before him, clothed in pure white—and, passing along the street, she turned her eyes toward the place where he stood very timidly, and, by her ineffable courtesy, saluted him with such grace that, intoxicated with delight, he turned away from the crowd, and betaking himself to his solitary chamber, he fell into a sweet slumber, in which a marvelous dream appeared to him. This vision is described in a sonnet, his first poetical composition, copies of which, as was the custom in those days, were sent to the poets for interpretation. The sonnet was well received, and poems in answer to it were returned—one particularly from Guido Cavalcanti, who, having thus made the acquaintance of Dante, conceived for him a friendship which terminated only with his death. Dante da Majano however, another poet of some renown, showed very little sympathy with the mystic fancies of the lover, and, in a satirical response, advised the poet to seek the aid of the physician.

Thus Dante, according to the letter of the Vita Nuova, commenced to dream and to love—to gaze at Beatrice from a distance, and to compose poems in her praise—abstaining, however, from naming her, fearful lest he should offend her purity, or compromise her honor. He tells us that he attempted to conceal his affections, even by feigning love for another lady, to whom he dedicated the songs intended for Beatrice, and that at last Beatrice refused to salute him when they met. Then he relates that he returned home, locked himself in his chamber, where his lamentations could not be heard, and gave himself up to despair, until at length he fell asleep, with tears in his eyes, like a child who had been beaten. Again, at a wedding festival, he was so overpowered by her presence that he was led away by his friends; and in answer to their inquiries as to what was the matter with him, he replied, "I have set my foot on that edge of life beyond which no man can go with power to return."

In a canzone, he describes a dream or vision in which he beholds the dead body of Beatrice, surrounded by women with unbounded hair, who abandon themselves to mourning, as they cover the beautiful features with a snowy veil. Dark clouds obscure the sun; the stars are pale with grief. He beholds the slow and sorrowful funeral procession; he sees a company of angels carrying away the soul of his beloved, enveloped in a white cloud. Tears gush from his closed eyes; he cries, "O beautiful soul, how happy is he who yet beholds thee!" and he calls on Death to bear him away to Beatrice. The fair watchers at his bedside hasten to wake him from his terrible dream, and ask the occasion of his grief. But, in the sobs and groans in which he reveals it, they are unable to distinguish the name of Beatrice, and so the cause of his sorrow remained a poetical mystory to them.

This vision was the foreshadowing of approaching reality; for the actual Beatrice soon after died, at the age of twenty-four, having been married for a few years to Simon de Bardi, afterward conspicuous in the political party of the Neri, by whom Dante was so bitterly persecuted."

Idaho News.

The subjoined particulars of Captain Walker's fight with the Indians on Jordon Creek, we find in the Idaho Statesman of the 1st instant:

Captain Walker and Lieutenant Toby, arrived from Camp Lyon yesterday about eleven o'clock, from whom we obtain the particulars of his pursuit and "treaty" with the Snakes. Leaving Fort Boise he took the course he had [illegible] before starting, crossing the Snake at Boise Ferry and [illegible]. His party consisted of thirty-nine men all told. Last Friday, the 23d inst., about 4 o'clock, P. M., while the party were filing down a hill where four canyons meet, the foremost of the party came suddenly upon a camp of Indians nearly secreted from the trail. The men immediately opened fire upon the camp when the Indians all fled to a sort of shelving precipice in one of the canyons, from whence they kept up a most vigorous defence until they were nearly all killed. Some time elapsed before Captain Walker's men came up, and they did not all at any time engage in the fight. The Indians were almost entirely barricaded behind the rocks where they hid and defended themselves with desperation. They were armed with sporting rifles and plenty of ammunition. They also sent arrows whizzing around the ears of the men whenever they came within range of the hole in the rocks. The fight continued until after dark, by which time all the Indians were killed except three, who crawled into a bunch of thick chapparal, two of them badly wounded. From that retreat they kept up a fire, though they could not themselves be seen. Determined not to leave one alive, Corporal Burke and several others charged upon them, when Burke received a fatal shot through the breast. It being next to impossible to find the remaining Indians in the darkness and brush, the fight was abandoned and they moved three miles and camped for the night, carrying the body of Burke and a wounded musician by the name of Vrooman, both of Company "D," 2d battalion, 14th Infantry. They left eighteen dead bucks on the ground besides the three that escaped. The company captured all the Indians' horses, nineteen in number, and destroyed three lodges in which they found bunches of keys, boxes of yeast powder, salt, a government blanket, soldiers' gloves, citizen's clothing; also rasps and files, a considerable quantity of knives, powder, and bullet moulds, also government saddles and some rifles. The next day Captain Walker started for Camp Lyon where he arrived on the 26th, out of provisions, and horses jaded—nine having died. Leaving his command at Camp Lyon to recruit the horses, he came over to Fort Boise. He speaks in the highest terms of his men, and says he wants no better sport than to go with them again as soon as the stock can travel, which he intends doing, if not soon removed from the Post.

Corporal Burke, who was killed in the late Indian fight, had come unhurt out of twenty-three battles of the rebellion.

LETTER FROM CAPT. WHITE—LIEUTENANT PEPOON'S PURSUIT OF THE INDIANS.

CAMP LYON, I. T., FEB. 21st, 1866.

SIR: I have the honor to report that on the 14th inst., under instructions from Headquarters Sub-District of Boise, Lieutenant Silas Pepoon, First Oregon Cavalry, with forty one men of this command, left this point to join Captain Walker's expedition, at the mouth of the Owyhee river. Lieut Pepoon had been gone about one hour when information was brought to this post that the Snake Indians had attacked Hall's ranch, on Jordon creek, eighteen miles distant, and had shot and probably killed Hall and two or three others; and that his place was on fire at the time the messenger left. Knowing the exposed position of the settlements on Jordon creek, and having sent all the available men with Lieut Pepoon, I immediately sent a messenger to him with instructions to send as many men as necessary for safety to the mouth of the Owyhee to report to Capt Walker, and to return with the remainder of his command and proceed at once to Hall's and give such protection and assistance as the circumstances might require.

Lieut. Pepoon reports that on reaching the scene of the Indian depredations he found Hall badly wounded, his ranch partly destroyed by fire, and all his cattle and horses driven off by the Indians. He followed them and on the 16th inst came up with them near the Owyhee river, about fifty miles south of this post. The Indians were twelve or fifteen in number, and finding they could not succeed in getting away with the stolen stock, abandoned their booty, shot some of their own horses, and ran into a rocky canyon. Lieut. Pepoon dismounted a part of his men and followed them, sending a few men mounted to another point to watch their movements and co-operate in the pursuit. The Indians scattered, each one taking care of himself. One was overtaken and killed, but not until he had wounded one man and killed one cavalry horse with arrows. The nature of the canyon was such that it was found impossible to overtake the others, and they made good their escape. Thirty six head of cattle and horses were recovered—a few had been killed by the Indians. The Lieutenant encamped his command in the vicinity of the canyon, and on the following morning made a reconnoissance beyond, but found no Indians, nor any evidence of the route they had taken. He then concluded to return with the stock he had recaptured and deliver it to its owner. This done, he arrived at this camp on the 19th inst.

Since the Indian raid I have temporarily stationed ten men, of Co. C, 2d Battalion 14th U S Infantry at Hall's ranch for its protection as it is the most exposed point in Jordan valley. Another small detachment will be necessary at the ferry where the California and Nevada road crosses the Owyhee.

BOISE CITY.—A correspondent of the Vancouver Register writing from Boise City furnishes the following information showing the growth and prosperity of that place:

The prospect of Boise City being a large town is beyond all doubt. It is situated in the center of a rich mining district and in a fine agricultural valley, and is the great center of all the mails and stages, five or six stages leaving every other day for different points. Boise City has now sixteen stores, six hotels and restaurants, three or four boarding houses, one printing office, and a power press on the way for another office, six or seven law offices, five or six doctor shops, two saddler shops, two shoe shops, eight blacksmith shops, two wagon shops, six or eight livery stables and feed yards, nine saloons, two larger beer breweries, two bakeries, two paint shops, five or six furniture and carpenter shops, one chair shop, one silversmith, one book store, one express office, one brick yard, one foundry, one large steam saw mill with planers, and many other kinds of business in a small way at present. There is a fine Union Sunday School here which has grown lately, under the management of the Rev. Mr. Hamilton and lady, until it numbers upwards of one hundred scholars, which is certainly pretty good for a town only a little better than two years old.

MISSISSIPPI.—The people of Richmond are just now very much exercised over the report that President Johnson, owing the hostile attitude of the Legislature, proposes to take back, his restoration order and proclaim Virginia to be again under provisional authority. Whether or not there be any truth in this rumor, it is certain that Mississippi merits such action on the part of the President. The officials and people of this State have shown an unworthiness to be intrusted with authority, much less to have a representation in Congress. When, some months since, the President set Provisional Governor Sharkey over the people, he gave them every assurance that a display of a spirit of loyalty would secure all the rights and privileges pertaining to State autonomy. An election for Governor was held and the people elected to the gubernatorial chair not the Union candidate, but one who had served as Major General in the insurgent armies. The President, overlooked this disregard of his wishes, and forwarded General Humphreys his pardon before the result of the canvass had been officially announced. But the latter had no sooner entered upon his duties than he issued a special proclamation of the most offensive character, breathing a spirit of hostility toward the Government, and especially towards the freedmen. The spirit manifested by the Governor appeared at once to pervade the people, and from that day to this we have received accounts of outrages perpetrated upon original loyalists and helpless blacks. Correspondents at Jackson, Vicksburg, and elsewhere in the State, have filled their letters with stories of this character. We at first questioned the statements, but they have since been so frequently reiterated and repeated, that there must certainly be much foundation for them. One letter writer at Jackson says the negroes are constantly subjected "to whipping without mercy, tying up by the thumbs, beating with clubs, pounding with pistols, cutting with knives," etc. Not long since, a Union man, on returning to his home, near Bahalia, was put to death by his old neighbors, and no investigation into the affair took place. While a party of negroes were participating in a festive party at Shanghole, last month, twenty whites surrounded the building, set fire to it, and burned to death several of the blacks. A few days ago a mob assembled at Hazelhurst, seized Captain Warren Peck, confined him for two weeks in a jail, until he was forcibly released by his regiment. On the night of the 6th inst., a body of citizens repaired to his plantation, near Greenville, and coolly shot down General T. O. Osborn, formerly Colonel of the Thirty-Ninth Illinois Volunteers, and afterward promoted for "gallant and meritorious conduct." He had left his Illinois home to engage in cotton planting. We did not learn that any notice has been taken by the authorities of the murder. Governor Humphreys has now furnished another evidence of the animus which pervades the State in a special cotton proclamation, in which he explicitly recognizes the legality of the proceedings of the various State Legislatures convened during the rebellion, in direct opposition to the President's theory of reconstruction, which wholly ignores all legislation in the recovered States during the period of rebellion.

It is unpleasant to be compelled to record these evidences of hostility and insubordination in Mississippi; and yet it is due to the President, Congress and the loyal people that all the facts in the case can be revealed. If one of the restored States improves the very first opportunity of its freedom from national control to array itself in hostility against the national authority, and to inaugurate a system of persecution against the blacks and those who remained true to the flag—the servants of the people, those to whom is intrusted the responsible and delicate task of reconstruction and re-organization, should know it and act accordingly.—N. Y. Commercial.

"DEAD DUCK."—The Sacramento Union says: A good "Democrat" asked for the Presidential opinion of Forney, Secretary of the Senate, and the President replied, with refined and exquisite humor: "There is no use of wasting ammunition on dead ducks." The "dead duck" referred to, is the man who took care of Johnson during two attacks of delirium tremens, and who, as editor of a leading journal, and one of the managers of the Union party in Pennsylvania, has worked early and late to secure the President the confidence of loyal men and screen his failings from the public eye.

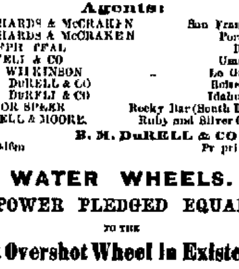
WATER WHEELS.

POWER PLEDGED EQUAL

TO THE

Best Overshot Wheel in Existence.

Prices Greatly Reduced! Prices Greatly Reduced!



American Double Turbine Water Wheel

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works, in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes from 10 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper sized wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth, and the distance it flows in a minute.

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all minds capable of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction. Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition.

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes. It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they are so arranged as to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

The prices of these wheels have now been reduced to the ability of all. Come and see them or send for a circular to

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
